

The ultimate goal

In 2012 we will see the nation going Olympics “mad”. You might not believe it but the experience of recent Olympic host nations is that this is what happens. So whether or not you are a massive sports, or cultural, fan it is wise to be ready. The BBC have already announced their presentation teams and it will be wall to wall on the BBC from 6.30am until late at night. News bulletins will be full of achievements, and failures. Personally I love the celebration of sport that comes with the Paralympics and Olympics. Along with the family I shall be attending some events at both, and watching a great deal.

I have a huge admiration for all these sports people, and their families and coaches. They have focused on their goal; they have made all kinds of sacrifices in achieving their goal; they have put themselves through pain and agony; they have forsaken other possible goals for the sake of this one. It is no wonder St Paul used imagery from the “Olympian” athletes of his own day to reflect on Christian living and ministry.

“Every athlete exercises self control in all things. They do it to receive a perishable wreath, but we are imperishable. So I do not run aimlessly... “(1 Corinthians 9 : 25f).

Towards the end of his life he concludes “I have fought the good fight. I have finished the race. I have kept the faith.” (2 Timothy 4 : 7)

Paralympic and Olympic athletes offer us all an inspiration and a challenge. How dedicated are we to fulfilling the goal that God has called us to? The goal of being holy, like Jesus himself. The goal of seeking first God’s kingdom and justice so that we see a world in which poverty is eradicated, homelessness gone, violence in the home ended, weapons of war turned into the tools of peace, meaningful work being real for everyone. The goal of seeing our friends, neighbours and enemies entering into a living relationship with Jesus Christ themselves.

Olympians today gain a great deal, especially if they win. They receive acclaim, financial reward, celebrity status but only for a while. The Church is in the business of eternity, of history-making and changing. Our business is far more serious and far more significant. Let us be inspired and challenged together in 2012 to run the race, to take up the cross and follow Christ committing everything to this call of God.

And on the way there will be some enjoyment of living in the nation hosting the greatest show on earth in 2012.

New 'eco offices' for the Church of England in Nottinghamshire

A new 'Eco friendly' mission centre has been given the green light by leaders of the Church of England in Nottinghamshire.

The new offices and conference accommodation will be built on land near the current offices across the road from Southwell Minster and will be funded partly through the sale of the present listed offices, which will be restored and converted to apartments.

The Bishop of Southwell & Nottingham, the Rt Revd Paul Butler, welcomed the new plans and said: "This is an exciting project as we build for the future and make a positive contribution to the architecture and impact in historic Southwell. The building is all about resourcing the mission of the church and supporting the vital work our parish churches do in local communities with all those in need of our love, care and help in both spiritual and practical ways."

Construction is due to start in January 2012 and the offices, on three levels will be built into sloping land at the side of the current offices. The new building, which will cost approx £3m (coming from current diocesan investments and the sale of the present offices), will bring together diocesan staff and bishops in shared open plan offices, as well as providing meeting and small conference rooms. The building will include many energy saving features that will reduce the energy demand, with very high levels of insulation, the maximum use of natural daylight and natural ventilation, and low energy light fittings. The design includes flat green roofs that will enhance biodiversity and provide an attractive roofscape.

Nick Keightley, Director of Nottingham based Maber Architects said: "We're very pleased to be working with the Diocese on this project which will enhance the local environment by replacing the present unattractive extension. The new offices will be discreetly built into the hillside and framed by the existing mature trees which will remain an important part of the landscape."

Talking about the development in a time of economic downturn, Diocesan Chief Executive, Nigel Spraggins, said: "These new offices are an opportunity for us to invest in the local economy, as we aim to use local contractors and source as many materials locally as possible."

New Vision Lent Courses

4 new study courses for small groups, available for this Lent, will help churches reflect on the diocesan vision strategy of Joining Together in the Transforming Mission of God – launched earlier this year.

The Four courses, which have been endorsed by Bishop Paul, can be taken up individually or used as material to follow on from each other, either during Lent or at other times of the year as appropriate. One of the courses will examine the overall vision of Joining Together in the Transforming Mission of God and the other three, will focus on each of the three strategic ‘strands’ within the vision including; Seeking Justice, Living Worship, Growing Disciples.

The material in each course will usually be delivered over a period of six evenings for six weeks. However, the sessions could be delivered over a weekend – on a church houseparty, for instance. The courses are written for use in small groups in churches around the diocese. If ecumenical groups are the norm there is no reason why the material should exclude people of other denominations. The optimum group size is between 8 and 12, but as few as 6 or many as 15 is also possible.

If you are planning a 2012 Lent Course or home group programme then book your study materials, or send for further details from Catriona Gundlach in the Department for Development, tel 01636 817232 email: Catriona@southwell.anglican.org
Or see the website: www.southwell.anglican.org

The new course booklets will be available from February 1st 2012.

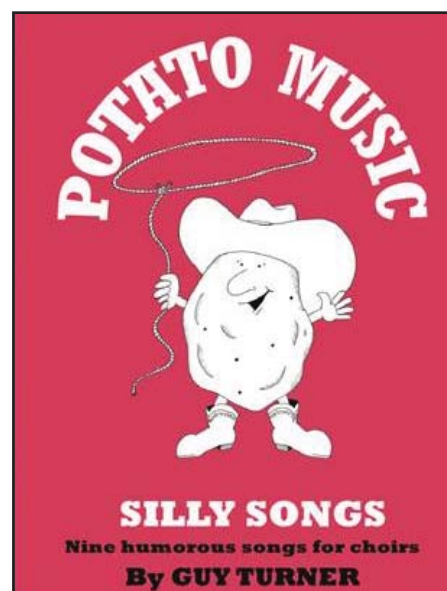

Potato Music published

One of Southwell Minster’s Lay Clerk’s and Music and Liturgy Assistant, Guy Turner, has published a book of his humorous Choral Music. Guy is a well known composer of choral music, whose music has been performed in the Albert Hall and on TV and Radio.

Encouraged by success, Guy has recently published a book of nine of his most popular choral songs called ‘Potato Music’ – the title comes from one of the songs in the book, a choral showpiece called The Potato Song.

The songs, for which Guy writes his own words, range from a song about a cowboy who lives in Surrey, to a song about a lonely homing pigeon, to a hangover song entitled Sloe Gin Blues.

Potato Music can be bought from Southwell Minster Shop and further information can be found at www.guyturner.co.uk

Visit to Burundi 12-27 July 2012

As part of our diocesan commitment to world mission, Bishop Paul is leading a trip to Burundi in July 2012 with representatives from churches which already have links in Burundi. There are some places still available for anyone hoping to develop a parish link with the Church of Burundi or interested in visiting it. Read on for more details.

Purpose

To build relationships with the Church of Burundi: to see it at work with the intention of establishing longer term partnership. The itinerary will include visiting Bujumbura and other dioceses.

Preparation

The group will aim to meet together on three occasions before travelling for building relationships, prayer, planning and general preparation. It will also meet once a few weeks after returning for de-briefing together.

The total cost is estimated at around £1600 per person.

This includes flights, travel in Burundi, accommodation and visas.

Additional expenses include travel insurance and injections.

Each person is responsible for their own funding but it is hoped that PCCs will be very supportive and cover much of the costs for parish representatives. In addition, a small subsidy may be available from the Diocese.

Next steps

Do speak to your local minister about the possibility of taking part and exploring a church link.

For further information or to book a place on the trip, contact Jackie Davies or Lucy Cleland at Bishop's Manor 01636 812112 email: bishop@southwell.anglican.org as soon as possible.

Local branch of new 'Missionary Society' is launched

Southwell and Nottingham branch of the Missionary Society of St Wilfrid and St Hilda will be launched in Southwell Minster on Monday 30th January 2012.

This organisation has been created to find a way forward in the discussions of how the Church Of England will legislate for Women Bishops. It is a company of believers led by bishops and loyal to the Church of England and her catholic heritage who are committed to a bold proclamation of Jesus Christ as Lord through a whole number of areas including preaching, teaching, prayer the sacraments and many other areas.

Bishop Paul said: "I welcome the Society of Wilfrid and Hilda trusting it will be an effective way of helping people stay within the C of E and be given an appropriately honoured place." Members will attend a 5.45pm Evensong in the Cathedral which will be followed by a simple reception with the Bishops of Beverley and Southwell & Nottingham.

Compiled for Nifty Notes

Tasked to be custodians of this planet

Link Officer, The Revd Barbara Holbrook writes:

It's New Year, and in Natal this means the new school year as well. Looking to the future is important at this time. Of course, in November and December Durban hosted a conference on Climate Change. Writing in Anglican News in May, the Archbishop of Cape Town, Thabo Makgob, wrote:

“We ask this World Economic Forum to recognise the need to put justice first, in caring for people and planet, and to recognise that real prosperity can only come from making the well being of people and planet our primary concern. In our world today it seems clear that we put prosperity - and profitability - before justice, so that at a time when there is more wealth in the world than ever before, we also have greater poverty and inequality and alarming environmental destruction....As the environment is harmed so are the local communities who live there. The impact is felt in terms of food production, of the availability of safe water, and of energy, in particular. The livelihoods of people may be changed forever....We can't ignore these changes just because we don't all agree scientifically. There is a need to look at ourselves. What patterns have changed in our attitudes to the creation which has been entrusted to us? How do we view our 'rights' to energy, water and land, to name but three of our natural resources?....We in Africa have a moral responsibility to speak out to those nations which have the greatest impact on climate change, through their high levels of carbon emissions. We are a global family - it is very hard to argue against that fact. Our actions impact on one another and our tragedies do as well.... Your task - as is mine and that of all who recognise that we have responsibility for ourselves, for this world and all in it - is to be custodians of this planet, to care for it and look after it for the future - the future of your children and grandchildren and mine.”

Please pray for the Diocese of Natal as they and the wider Anglican Church in South Africa speak out for what is right. Pray for their leaders. Remember, too, that as we share our stories, we should share our concerns, so pray for ourselves as we take up this challenge in our parishes.

Finally, our congratulations go to Robin Greenwood, the Diocesan Secretary. At the service in the Cathedral on 26 November, to Consecrate Tsietse Seleokane as Bishop Suffragan, Archbishop Thabo Makgoba presented the award of the Order of Simon of Cyrene to Robin for his service to the Diocese over many years. This is the highest award given by the Anglican Church of Southern Africa to a lay person, in honour of service and ministry to church and society.

New Launde Abbey Programme for 2012

After months of preparation and planning the new Programme for Launde Abbey's retreats, Quiet Days, Holidays and Special Events is now ready.

In terms of speakers Launde will be welcoming back some well-known faces next year, such as , John Bell from the Iona Community and writer, Angela Ashwin, alongside new leaders, including Martin Laird, Ray Simpson, Peter Ball and Simon Small - all well-known in the retreat community.

New retreats and events will also be covered and these will include a Taize Weekend, Gardening Holiday and a Healing retreat for the victims of crime.

Alongside the retreats and Quiet Days there will also be a number of holidays throughout the year, including Walking, Landscape Painting and the annual Working Holiday where individuals, friends and family can come together for an activity holiday with a difference. If you have a special skill that might be useful to Launde Abbey, such as building or horticulture, they would love to hear from you.

The programme can be downloaded from www.laundeabbey.org.uk or hard copies may be obtained from the General Office at Launde on 01572 717254 or by e-mailing suzanne@launde.org.uk

COMING TO A STREET NEAR YOU

NOT WITH YOUR HELP!
SLEEP OUT SO THAT OTHERS DON'T HAVE TO

The Mansfield Big Snore

Friday 3 February 2012

Last year 65 people slept overnight in St Mark's Church car park to raise money for homeless people in Mansfield. Well over £12,000 was collected.

The Mansfield Big Snore team is inviting you, your colleagues, friends and family, any church or youth groups, to support the 2012 event. Funds raised by sponsorship will go directly to support Framework services in Mansfield, including the Sherwood Street Emergency Accommodation Centre and teams who work with people in their own homes to prevent homelessness.

Homelessness affects thousands of local people every year for reasons such as domestic violence, family breakdown, mental health problems and unemployment. Rates of rough sleeping and homelessness are on the increase and there have been dramatic cuts to funding. The Mansfield Big Snore aims to make homelessness visible for one night and to raise valuable funds to help support vulnerable people in the community.

If you can't sleep out on the night, there are other ways in which you can help. You can make a donation by going to www.mansfieldbigsnore.org, or get your school or workplace involved in raising funds.

You can register for the Mansfield Big Snore by:

- Visiting www.mansfieldbigsnore.org
- Filling in the slip with this letter and return it to Framework
- Calling Framework's Mansfield Big Snore team on 0115 9709515

You must register beforehand to take part in the event but get in quickly as places are limited!

Church's Charity Donation

St James Church Normanton on Soar was packed on Sunday 11th December for its Candlelit Village and Boat Club Christmas Celebration, and it was much appreciated to have the Mayor of Rushcliffe, Cllr Gordon Moore, at the service. Musical from Eric Brook (President of Soar Boating Club), Normanton on Soar Village School and Normanton on Soar Village Choir were presented and there were readings by the Mayor and by the Vicar, the Revd Dr John Davey, as well as by representatives from the Women's Institute, Soar Boating Club, the Men's Association and the Parish Council.

The Church in Normanton on Soar strongly feels that it should support the wider community, as well as raising funds to keep its beautiful 12th Century Church in good condition for future generations. Members of the congregation put forward names of charities that the Church should consider supporting, and specific events throughout the year go towards the Charity of the Year. This year's charity has been Epilepsy Action, suggested by Mrs Pat James.

At the end of the service, the Mayor of Rushcliffe, Cllr Gordon Moore presented a cheque for £750 on behalf of the Church to Julie Clark from Epilepsy Action, who then described the work carried out by her charity. Next year's Charity of the Year is to be Riding for the Disabled, suggested by Mrs Wendy Miller.
